Dear Friends:

The ‘real’ highlight of yesterday’s Grad Ceremonies was not our row of distinguished guests, even though they took great pains to make sure nothing was left unsaid. Nor was it the happy crowd of well-wishers who gathered despite all the protocols of The Virus...

... adding much exuberant life to the occasion. Nor was it even the 45 graduates themselves, going forth to impact the nation and beyond with their dynamic ministries and professions — a file which included Duncan Onyango from Kenya, and Zimbabwean bishop Peter Zanghaza.

No, the real highlight for us was Kyembe Ilunga, captured on camera with his father, Bari. The thing about Kyembe is that he is graduating from the very campus where he was born!

We found this so encouraging!

- Parents passing on their zeal for world missions and Christian service to their kids! It's like things have come full circle!
- And imagine! We have probably revised curriculum a dozen times since Bari Ilunga's day. Are we still relevant? Can we still rally the next generation to the greatest of callings? Kyembe Ilunga says the answer is 'Yes.'

Such a day! Despite all the viral protocol and Third Wave concerns, so full of bright hope for the future!

"The knowledge of the Lord shall fill all the earth!" (Habakkuk 2:14).
